Shelly-Ann Fraser-Pryce

EVERYBODY'S PERSON OF THE YEAR 2019

Shelly-Ann Fraser-Pryce of Jamaica, one of the greatest female sprinters of all times, is the 2019 EVERYBODY'S, the Caribbean-American magazine, Person of the Year. Established in January 1977 and beginning in 1978, the magazine has presented its Person of the Year annually.

"I suggest Shelly-Ann Fraser-Pryce, mother, sprinter and Jamaican Olympian. At age 32, Ms. Fraser-Pryce did the improbable; she won her fourth IAAF World Championship title in the 100meter dash after having a child. Not only is she a worthy competitor, she gives back to the community where she grew up. She is humble and has a beautiful spirit and a strong mind," wrote an EVERYBODY'S "Caribbean" magazine reader.

Fraser-Pryce validated her undisputed track and field greatness at the 2019 World Athletics Championships held in Doha, Qatar. NBC Sports stated, "Shelly-Ann Fraser-Pryce of Jamaica becomes the first mom to win an Olympic or world 100m title since Gwen Torrence in 1995 and the oldest woman ever to win an Olympic or world 100m title at 32 years old."

CNN said, "Shelly-Ann Fraser-Pryce further staked her claim as one of the greatest female sprinters of all time by storming to victory in the women's 100 meters final at the World Championships in Doha."

As a teenager, she attracted regional attention at the 2002 Central American and Caribbean Junior Championships (Under-17) held in Barbados when her 4x100m relay team won. In Trinidad & Tobago at the 2005 CARIFTA Games (Under-20), her 4x100m relay team emerged victorious and she placed 3rd in the 100m.

The 2007 World Championships in Japan brought Fraser-Pryce to world attention when her 4x100m relay team placed 2nd. She emerged a champion in her own right at the 2008 Olympics held in China when she won the 100m. That year was historic for Jamaica and the Caribbean because Fraser-Pryce and Usain Bolt brought the prestigious 100m gold medals to the region.

Fraser-Pryce success continued in Germany at the 2009 World Championships where she placed first in the 100m and 4x100m. Nobody was surprised when she won the gold medal at the 2012 Olympics held in England and silver in the 200m and 4x100m.

What a massive year for Fraser-Pryce in 2013! At the Russia World Championships, she placed first in her three specialties – 100m, 200m and 4x100m.

Fraser-Pryce is the only sprinter, male or female, to win the 100m World Championships four times - 2009, 2013, 2015 and 2019.

Her medal count is listed at www.everybodysmag.com.

After winning the women's 100m final in 2019, Fraser-Pryce told the world, "My secret is just staying humble and just know who you are as a person and athlete and just continue to work hard," where she was joined on the track by Zyon. "It's a wonderful feeling having my son witnessing this."

During her almost entire life in track and field she found time to marry her teenage sweetheart, Jason, and gave him bouncing baby boy, Zyon, born on August 7, 2017, one day after Jamaica independence date, August 6. She is a graduate of Jamaica's University of Technology and the University of the West Indies.

We at EVERYBODY'S have observed the modesty, eloquence and optimism exhibited by Mrs. Fraser-Pryce at civic events in New York City. She is a role model for young people in Jamaica, the wider Caribbean and around the globe.

Suggestions for the 2019 EVERYBODY'S Magazine Person of the Year were exceptional. Men were nominated but it was the first time our readers, fans of the magazine's theatrical and concert productions, placed three women on top the Person of the Year list. The other two – Barbados Prime Minister Mia Mottley and Calypso Rose, EVERYBODY'S 1978 Person of the Year. "My choice is Calypso Rose because she has endured and survived breast cancer about 3 or 4 times; she is an extension of the whole Caribbean with her calypso and soca. She still travels to foreign lands to perform and showcase the soca/calypso. She tours France every summer," wrote J. Mayers of St. Vincent and the Grenadines.

EVERYBODY'S Magazine Person of the Year include Usain Bolt, Olympian, Hurricane Irma and Hurricane Maria (phenomenon), Jumaane Williams, New York City Public Advocate, Prime Minister Baldwin Spencer, Clive Lloyd, West Indies cricket captain and The Mighty Sparrow, Calypsonian – the late Congresspersons Shirley Chisholm and Mervyn Dymally, Sir Arthur Lewis, Nobel Laureate, Prime Ministers Eugenia Charles, Tom Adams, Edward Seaga, Herbert Blaize and Patrick Manning.

Tina Charles to Dad with Love

Tina Charles and her Dad celebrate at the Tribeca Film Festival, May 3, 2019.

Tina Charles, two-time Olympian, WNBA superstar and EVERYBODY'S 2016 Co-Person of the Year (along with Usain Bolt), film, "Charlie's Records," premiered at the 2019 Tribeca Film Festival. "Charlie's Records" is about Tina's dad, Rawlston Charles, enormous contributions to calypso and soca. Although she dreamt of one day honoring her father in a unique way, the straw that broke the camel back was upon seeing a photo of his record store in the National Museum of African-American History and Culture in Washington, D.C. It was the first film produced and directed by Tina. Expect more documentaries from her production company.

Buju Banton Walk to Freedom Tour

Buju Banton concerts, "Walk to Freedom Tour," attracted more attention in the Caribbean than carnival. Upon his release from a federal prisoner in Georgia after incarcerated for seven years, Banton fans around the world flocked to his concert held at the National Stadium, Kingston, Jamaica, on Saturday, March 16, 2019.

EVERYBODYS
NEW YORK

In Trinidad & Tobago, the police searched his hotel room but Police Commissioner Gary Griffiths later apologized. Banton appealed to curb the endless murders in T&T and when Banton invited the Commissioner on stage, the Commissioner said, "And from GG (Gary Griffiths) to BB (Buju Banton), Trinidad and Tobago and Jamaica are allies forever."

Dr. Lamuel A. Stanislaus Way Photo: Leonard McKenzie

Dr. Lamuel Stanislaus Way

On Saturday, June 15, the City of New York, named the intersection of Rutland Road @ Flatbush Avenue near the home of the late Grenadian-American Dr. Lamuel Stanislaus, Dr. Lamuel A. Stanislaus Way. Dr. Stanislaus' legacy was known beyond Brooklyn's Caribbean community. He lived at Rutland Road for over 65 years where his wife, Beryl and himself, raised their children. Many professionals in Brooklyn – especially doctors and lawyers - resided in Prospect Lefferts Garden at that time. Yet, getting a mortgage for a home there by a black professional was difficult for racial reasons and the monthly mortgage too expensive, $80-$150 range. After retiring from dentistry, Dr. Stanislaus became Grenada's Ambassador to the UN. Enrolled at Howard University in the 1940s, one of his lecturers was Professor Eric Williams who later led Trinidad & Tobago to independence. "I arrived in the U.S. on May 29, 1967, knowing only two persons, my two schoolmates ... By luck, I met Dr. Stanislaus in Harlem a few days later ... the rest is history ... When I ran for the NYS Senate in 2002 as a Republican, Dr. Stanislaus contributed financially to my campaign. An active Democrat, he informed me I cannot win but I can bring forth bold ideas. My manifesto advocated a multicultural stadium for Brooklyn and creating more charter schools. A year or two later, the governor announced plans for a stadium (Barclays Center) and most West Indians who opposed charter schools because it was a Republican initiative were the first to send their children to charter schools ... I and EVERYBODY'S are indebted to the late Dr. Stanislaus," says Herman Hall, EVERYBODY'S publisher.

The Jamaica Progressive League, established in New York in 1936, was honored on September 28 when the intersection of Dyre Avenue @ Light Street, Bronx, NY was named Jamaica Progressive League Way. In 1938, the Jamaica Progressive League proclaimed the People's National Party of Jamaica must seek independence for Jamaica. On August 6, 1962 independence was achieved.

Tower Isles 50th Anniversary and distributor of Jamaica style patties, celebrated its 50th anniversary. The late Earl and Beryl Levi opened their small West Indian bakery in 1969 in the Bedford-Stuyvesant community of Brooklyn. In the early 1980s, Mayor Edward Koch cut the ribbon opening Tower Isles Frozen Foods massive plant in East New York. The facility with its state-of-the-art equipment and USDA certified label enabled Tower Isles to market its products to mainstream consumers. Today, more than 1,000,000 patties are baked weekly for selling to mega supermarkets across the U.S. and around the world.

Patrick Jolly Retired

After the passing of Mrs. Beryl Levi, Mr. Patrick Jolly who joined Tower Isles in 1975 succeeded her. After 44 years of leadership and dedication, Jolly retired on the 50th anniversary of the company.

NYC Public Advocate Jumaane Williams presented citation to Patrick Jolly for 44 years of entrepreneurship and community involvement.

Trevor Smith at the Helm

New President Trevor Smith accepted proclamation from Public Advocate Williams commemorating Tower Isles' 50th birthday.

In October, Chief Marketing Officer Trevor Smith, a marketing and communication expert who joined Tower Isles in 1995, was appointed president. "We have an excellent team at Tower Isles, and we look forward to continuing the tradition of offering the best customer service, making the best quality products, supporting our community, and expanding our product line," Mr. Smith remarked. A social media guru, Smith is affiliated with many organizations including the Atlanta Jamaica Association and the Jamaican Independence Ball Committee. He is an ardent soccer fan and encourages the development of Caribbean soccer teams in New York City. Smith cohosts a tantalizing show, Real Talk - Future Movement Radio, heard in New York, Georgia and Florida.

Brexit - Caribbean and African-Britishers Embroiled

Brexit, the most controversial issue throughout 2019 in the UK, also alienated Britishers of Caribbean and African heritage. "We are all confused and divided," says Diane Dopwell of Dominica who in 1962 immigrated to England. "My friends, their children, my children and grandchildren take different sides." Brexit is the proposed withdrawal of the United Kingdom (UK) from the European Union (EU) that was given the okay by British voters in 2016, 51.9% for and 48.1% against. The closeness of the vote divided the UK. Two prime ministers resigned, two national elections and one referendum held and Scotland is threatening to quit the UK and become an independent nation in order to remain in the EU. Several leaders of the Conservative Party against Brexit have been kicked out and Conservative voters evenly divided. The Labour Party is divided too, half for and half against. But, Dave Lammy, the popular Guyanese-Britisher-House of Commons Labour Party legislator, is against Brexit. The result of the December 12, 2019 elections may not solve Brexit and reunite Britishers.

Passionate on the Brexit issue! Most Black voters against Brexit.

The Honorable Usain Bolt and Dr. Glanford Christian, Chairman of Cari-Med, were the recipients of the International Humanitarian Award. The American Friends of Jamaica dedicated to raise funds for education, healthcare and economic development programs in Jamaica was established in 1982 principally by Anne Sabo. EVERYBODY'S Magazine was an early promoter of AFJ.

One of the days, expect her to be governor of the State of Maryland or a Congresswoman.

Checking out Western Union Services

Fans attending Oliver Samuels play got information about Western Union Caribbean services and graciously accepted Western union mementos. EVERYBODY'S will present "Krazy But True," May 22-31, 2020, starring Oliver Samuels with Maffy Johnson, Lakeisha Ellison, Melessa Vassell and Denis Titus in Boston, Bridgeport, East Orange, Bronx, Queens and Brooklyn. (Loving Theater, Bronx, two shows, 3:30pm & 7:30pm, Memorial Sunday, May 24, 2020 and York College, Queens, Sun., May 31, 6pm.)

Sheila Clarke and Sybil Chester made sure the Moët & Chandon Rosé Champagne was at the perfect temperature for serving to the VIP guests.

Irving Burgie - Lord Burgess (1924-2019)

Lord Burgess, the songwriter who composed 11 hits for Harry Belafonte's album, "Calypso," composed the Barbados national anthem and wrote "Island in the Sun," for the 1957 Hollywood blockbuster, Island in the Sun, filmed in Grenada and Barbados, died in late November at 95. Mr. Burgie whose mother was an immigrant from Barbados, and father, a migrant from Virginia, was born in Brooklyn. "I am saddened to learn of Mr. Burgie passing. I was in awe when I met him," says this magazine publisher. "Years ago, we were honored at an event in Westchester, NY. The old man cried when he accepted his plaque as he reflected on the goodness of his mother. To my surprise, he knew EVERYBODY'S; he remained a subscriber for many years. I enjoyed his annual holiday concert at Town Hall." On November 30, 2019, Barbados' Independence Day, Prime Minister Mia Mottley asked the nation for a moment of silence in Burgie's memory.
